

NEW ENGLAND TORN BY TANGO TANGLES

Wellesley "Prom" To Be Minus
Dip Dance—Lynn Boys
Threaten a Boycott.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—The tango has almost replaced the railroad problem as New England's prize controversy. In a town where the prohibition or criticism of the dance has divided the residents into two camps during the last few days, and today three new storm centers appeared.

The Wellesley senior "prom" in the Mary Hensonway gymnasium, February 5, will be tangoless, by order of the faculty. The gloom about the girls' school is thick.

In Lynn, where high school boys threatened boycott of the tangoless annual ball, Superintendent Fowler has issued a statement advising parents to accompany their children to dances and investigate the new dance.

Concord, N. H., adopted home of Harry K. Thaw, is said to be the only New England town absolutely free from the tango craze today. Mayor French ordered the dance eliminated and the police followed orders strictly.

C., by Congressman Robert N. Page.

Only Naturalized Jap Will Lose Citizenship

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—Since 1898, Ulysses S. Keneke, rated as one of southern California's wealthiest Japanese, has enjoyed all the privileges of American citizenship, including the right to vote. Keneke is the only naturalized Japanese in the United States, and his papers are to be revoked.

No Desire to Smoke.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 22.—Fifty men and boys have taken throat treatment in Recorder McGovern's war on cigarettes. "I don't feel like smoking and I don't even feel like eating," said one victim.

White House Is Snubbed By a Snub-Nosed Terrier

Baggy having snubbed the White House and its social whirl, the White House is shocked.

Baggy is a little snub-nosed, spindle-shanked, black and tan terrier—a Manchester terrier, if you please. He has a pedigree, but no manners. He belonged—for a few minutes—to Miss Isabella Hagner, social secretary to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. His career in the high social circles of the Presidential set was brief. To be exact, it lasted eleven minutes.

Miss Hagner had been anxious to own Baggy for some time. He belonged to a friend of hers in Boston, and his attitude was so superior that Miss Hagner begged for him. Monday she received word that Baggy was on his way. The information was spread among her friends, including Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson. There was general curiosity in the White House to see Baggy.

Baggy arrived Monday in a crate and in a high state of indignation. He was delivered at Miss Hagner's apartments, at the Parkwood. She was there to receive him. With her were several women anxious to pay homage to Baggy. Baggy emerged from his crate growling. He glared about him.

"I shall take him to the White House immediately," said Miss Hagner.

At this Baggy sprang to his feet, and, without more ado, leaped through the open window. Miss Hagner and her friends crowded to the window, expecting to see a crumpled heap on the side-walk. Instead, they saw a streak of black and tan dashing around the corner. All trace of Baggy is gone.

Plans to Carry Five In Flight Across Ocean

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Claude Grahame-White, the aviator, today continued work on his plans to fly across the Atlantic in the summer of 1915. He said some of the work on his aeroplane for the trip has been done. He intends to make the trip from forty to sixty hours and land at New York, carrying four or five persons.

The aviator was induced to talk of his project because of reports from America that Orville Wright and Harry Atwood are planning a trans-oceanic flight from the other side.

Friends Laugh When He Tells of Taking Poison

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 22.—Nobody would believe Herbert W. Hoover, twenty-five years old, of 28 Mulberry street, when he announced to a party of friends early today that he had taken four bichloride of mercury tablets, and it was not until he was seized with a fit of vomiting that his condition was realized. He is now at the City Hospital.

Hoover returned last September after walking to San Francisco and back, and the results of the strain of the trip had been apparent for some time.
